THE SINGULAR PATAGONIA

THE BRAND

Swiss citizens Paul and Bertha Sahli, arrived in Chile in 1913. Their eldest son, Fernando, leases the Crillón Hotel and invites his siblings, Pablo and Raul, to join him in the business. The Crillón Hotel opened in 1931 becoming the most luxurious hotel in Santiago and an elegant social events centre. The hotel closed in 1978 however Fernando's sons continued working in the hotel industry. Felipe, who studied in Lausanne, Switzerland, was involved in the setting up of the Holiday Inn hotels in Chile and Buenos Aires. He later created The Singular Hotel concept and opened The Singular Patagonia in 2011 and The Singular Santiago in 2014.

THE SINGULAR PATAGONIA

The Singular Hotel Patagonia is the transition between our small existence and the majestic, eternal surroundings. Declared national heritage in 1996, The Singular Patagonia, Puerto Bories Hotel, is a unique historic destination, set in a privileged setting and location, positioned as among the best in the South. Live a luxurious experience in what is known as the end of the world route.

THE HISTORY

The hotel is located in the converted "Frigorífico Puerto Bories", a post-Victorian cold-storage plant built in 1915. This industrial complex was originally built by the "Sociedad Explotadora de Tierra del Fuego" to process and export frozen meat to Europe. Sheep breeding was raised all over Patagonia, including across the Andes in Argentina. The cold storage plant was in operation for 70 years, generating work and contributing to the development of the region. After a long period of neglect, the building was restored to its former industrial grandeur and as a result of the meticulous conservation, was declared as Chilean National Heritage in 1996.
